

SAFETY TALK

Working around mobile equipment

What's the danger?

Each year, many workers are killed or suffer serious injuries when working around powered mobile equipment.

How to protect yourself

Workers and operators share responsibility to keep everyone safe around mobile equipment.

Follow these safe work practices to prevent injury:

Operators:

- Ensure workers are clear of equipment before operating it
- Carry your load no higher than necessary so you can see more of what's around you
- Do not use cell phones while operating equipment

Workers:

- Before starting work, become aware of all mobile equipment operating on the job site
- Wear high-visibility clothing when on the job site
- Do not take short cuts across the job site where mobile equipment is in use
- Keep eye contact with the operator when working near mobile equipment
- Never assume you have the right of way
